SPOTLIGHT OF WAR SWINGS TO PACIFIC
MAINLAND ASOKINAWA BATTLE RUSHES

American Marines, Doughboys Enjoy Overwhelming Superiority

Interest focused upon the Asiatic mainland today as the Okinawa battle raged toward an end.

Primary factor in swinging the spotlight on the huge land mass where the Japs first began their aggression against China eight years ago was the meeting of Generals Douglas MacArthur and Joseph W. Stilwell.

Stilwell, recently replaced as commander of Allied forces in China, was revealed to have toured the Pacific areas, spending some time in the Philippines where he conferred with MacArthur who heads all army forces in the Pacific.

Stilwell's purpose may have been concerned with the training of troops to be redeployed in the Far East, for he is in command of all army ground forces.

However, many observers believed the talks may have involved preparations for major land operations in China, on which subject "Vinegar Joe" is a master, having directed the Allied forces in the Burma-China areas since the opening days of the Pacific war.

The discussions gained added importance coming as they did while

Six Selectees From Area Start Training

The selectee contingent today from the area served by Bristol Selective Service Board was six. Five of the young men, 18-year-olds listed as students, left Bristol shortly after eight o'clock this morning; while the sixth, a man of 37 years, listed as unemployed, joined the group in Philadelphia.

Gathered at the post office plaza and the railroad station to bid the men farewell were members of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion; and of the "36 for Victory." The latter distributed gifts to the selectees. Profy provided amplification.

The following were inducted today: John Richard Crowley, 37, W. Erie ave., Phila., unemployed; Marvin W. Collins, Jr., 18, Hayes street, student; Anthony Constantini, Jr., 18, Lafayette street, student; William G. Rogers, 18, 322 Jackson street, student; Joseph S. Embess, 18, Inlet street, student; John R. Wallace, 18, New Rogers road, student.

LT. HARRIET STOVER
BACK FROM PACIFIC

Longingly Speaks of Filets of Beef, Sold Cheap in Australia

GORGEOUS BIRD LIFE

DOYLESTOWN, June 8.—Lt. Harriet Stover, who is home on 30 days furlough, recently concluded three years service as an army nurse, principally on New Guinea.

Among her many memories are of the filets of beef enjoyed in Australia—about a dozen for 96 cents. But even Australia ran short on beef she adds.

Australia has its food problems, too, said the lieutenant, because there are only one million men left out of the 7,000,000 population. Four millions are women and two millions are in the war effort. With a population about 3,000,000 less than Pennsylvania, Australia is largely undeveloped.

Even in peace time most of the transportation is said to be by ships, because each State's railroad has a different track gauge than the other, which naturally causes complications.

So far as New Guinea is concerned, it was explained, there were no good roads until the Japs built them.

When it came to discussing black markets, Lieut. Stover said that they seemed to affect only the sale of liquor.

OPEN FIRST GERMAN HIGH COURT AT COBLENZ

Paris.—The opening at Coblenz of the first German high court to be established under supervision of the Allied Military Government was announced today by Supreme Headquarters.

The court, having eight non-Nazi judges on the bench, marked the start of a new chapter in the German judicial system. The court will serve an area which had a pre-war population of nearly 1,000,000 persons. Civil claims involving more than 50 marks, thefts by one German from another and other purely German non-routine cases will be handled by the court. It will not deal with any case having even the slightest military aspect.

All cases will be reviewed by the Military Government which will have the power to set aside the findings or suspend, commute, reduce or modify the sentences.

The judges now sitting were thoroughly investigated to assure that there was no link with the Nazi regime.

"WINNIE" ON THE STUMP

No one who likes a good old-fashioned political speech, and no one interested in the political problems of the United States, should miss reading the current addresses of Winston Churchill.

Churchill has most bitterly attacked the pro-Russian Labor Party, which precipitated the present election by charging that Churchill was endangering the future of the British Empire in failing to "co-operate" sufficiently with Stalin.

There are several close parallels between the British and American political situations.

The British Labor Party is substantially equivalent to America's CIO and other Left-Wing Democratic factions dominated by Sidney Hillman.

The leader of the Labor Party is Clement R. Atlee, who is a British version of Henry Wallace.

Churchill himself stands for a national policy and program substantially similar to the Republican Party's position as reflected by the stand of its various Senators and Representatives in the U. S. Congress.

Only one word of all those used by Churchill is apt to cause confusion to American readers—he uses the word "Socialist" to signify what most Americans would term "Communist."

For instance, when he warned that the British nation is too busy "to carry out a Socialist revolution," he was echoing an opinion expressed several times by Governor Dewey during last year's campaign, that the "Communists" were taking over the United States and heading us for a dictatorship.

Socialism, used in this special sense—the same sense it was used by the National Socialists in Germany when they were putting Hitler in power—is according to Churchill "inseparably interwoven with dictatorship."

This philosophy, Churchill further warned, if it proves successful in the present campaign, would prescribe for ordinary citizens everything from where they should work to "where their wives are to queue up for the state ration," and would establish political police and rigid censorship because it could not brook criticism.

Should a Socialist government "begin monkeying with the credit of Britain," Churchill warned (stating a danger which has been presented to the American people repeated by both Republicans and Democrats), the final result would be to cause the people's savings to "shrive before their eyes."

Such a refusal to balance government spending and income would, he declared, lead to a "delirium of inflation."

To the Republicans of the United States, many of whom doubtless may have felt that their were "voices crying in the wilderness" when they warned of the perils of the New Deal financial program, there will be solid comfort in the fact that Churchill, lion-hearted savior of England, is basing his campaign on doctrine so thoroughly in keeping with Republican opinion.

It is almost unthinkable that Churchill be defeated in the present contest. In fact there are signs that the opposition has begun to regret forcing the issue.

Factors will enter into the British decision which have no direct counterpart in the United States.

First, the British attitude towards Russia is bound to be different. Only recently one enemy sat at the English Channel, threatening momentarily to spring across at

DOWNWARD TREND
FOR AGRICULTURE
WORKERS IS SEEN

Fewer People Engaged In Farming; Trend To Continue

A SURVEY IS MADE

Farmers to Employ 9.8% Less in Post-War Period Than in 1940

The downward trend in the number of people engaged in agriculture in Bucks County which began in the nineteenth century will continue in the immediate post-war period, according to the Bucks County Committee for Economic Development report issued by Charles H. Boehm, County chairman. It also indicates that Bucks County will require less than 200 new farm employers in the immediate years following the war.

A statement issued by Mr. Boehm follows:

The Agricultural Survey of the Committee for Economic Development reveals that the farmers plan to employ 9.8% less in the post-war period than in 1940. Undoubtedly, improved and more farm machinery will replace some farm workers. William F. Greenawald, County Agricultural Extension Agent, has another explanation. He says that many farmers, because of the difficulty of securing labor, have replaced many acres of carrots and beets, which require a great deal of labor, to such vegetables as tomatoes, which require less labor.

In 1940, 6,232 were engaged in agriculture compared with 7,167 in 1930. The C. E. D. Summary indicates that only 5,129 are now engaged.

She first went into combat when she took part in the big raid on Wake Island in October, 1943. Later she participated in actions at Bougainville and Rabaul.

In November, 1943, she joined the Gilberts invasion force in time to go into Tarawa with it. While there, she gave burial at sea, with full military honors, to some of the marines killed in the beach assault.

STILL FEWER STEAKS

Considering how difficult it has been to buy meat, the announcement that the supply will probably be 7 per cent smaller this month is hardly cheering news. This estimate takes into account the ending of all meat shipments under lend-lease for 90 days. In March, April and May 325,000,000 pounds of U. S. meat was shipped out of the country as lend-lease, 300,000,000 pounds of which went to Russia.

The still more unpleasant fact is that there is little chance that there will be major improvement in the meat situation for the next few months. It will take time for the program adopted last month to increase the meat supply to take effect. And until meat becomes more plentiful much of the scarce supply may be expected to be diverted to the black market.

Even though by fall more meat may be available, another barrier to increased civilian supplies interposes in the form of relief needs of Europe. The alternative is to let Europe starve. Strictly practical considerations make such a course inadvisable.

In the meantime, it is the duty of the government to tell fully and clearly why meat continues to be scarce, just as it is its duty to bend every effort to put larger supplies in reach of the nation's housewives.

MARVEL OF SOUNDS

Discoveries in communicating messages by telegraph have been revolutionary in recent times, and some of them have enabled Western Union, using its present facilities, to obtain an additional capacity of 1,000,000 miles of telegraph channels without stringing up a single new copper wire.

The latest of these systems provides for as many as 288 telegrams to be sent simultaneously over a pair of wires. In ordinary telegraphy a message is sent by interrupting the flow of direct current on a wire according to a standard telegraph code.

Today, frequency modulation as used in the "FM" system of radio broadcasting, is the secret of improved carrier operation. In "FM" carrier telegraphy, the signals are transmitted by varying the tone according to the telegraph code, instead of interrupting it, as in amplitude modulation.

Thus, by pitching each frequency a little higher in the musical scale, as many as thirty-six different frequency channels are available on one pair of wires. Even "unheard sounds," beyond the range of human hearing, may be used in carrier operation. They are "re-translated" into audible tones at the receiving end of the carrier channel by means of a translator.

As had been feared, war will end with the white collar worker approximately where he started so far as salary is concerned.

More tires soon will be available to civilians, it is announced. And none too soon, as many motorists will testify.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

Lying in darkness, Daphne found that sleep had deserted her. She began to think of Alan. The congressman's daughter would probably get him. When a man is in a marrying mood, almost any smart girl could land him. But if he isn't...

And with that, Daphne's rambling thoughts recalled that moment under the mistletoe with Steve. If ever there was a man who was not in a marrying mood, it was Dr. Stephan Fenwick. "Uncle Steve!"

On him and his matrimonial prospects, or lack of them, she ruminates until the clock on the Town Hall chimed twelve.

The conclusion was that the status quo remained the same: Daphne would go on the victim of unrequited love for the rest of her life as far as Steve was concerned. Then she wondered what he'd really think, or do, if she said she was considering going to Washington.

Steve was teaching Juan to whistle. The piece de resistance of the two musicians was Yankee Doodle, and it was this tune, off key, that woke her the next morning.

"You're doing fine, darling!" Daphne called out from her open window.

"Am I? Hurry up down and I'll tell you."

It was Steve who answered, and he was ebullient as a college boy with his first car.

"Well, for heaven's sake!" she said a few minutes later when she'd got into neglect. "What brings you around at this hour?"

"I don't know what time of day it is!" Steve exclaimed. "For at last I've got it! Clear as crystal. Eureka, Daph!"

"The serum?"

"Yup!"

"And I'm the first to congratulate you. Oh, I'm so glad!"

"I know. Of course, it's only the first step; my serum must be actually tested in life, but..."

"Oh, Steve, what are you going to do now?"

"There's more work on this. I'll have to keep doing it over, testing, making sure. Besides, I've got a couple of other things I'd like to finish up. Then..."

The realtors discussed construction of new dwellings in the county. Mrs. Martha Wooley, of New Hope, spoke to the members regarding the proposed relocation of U. S. Mrs. Hower, of near Hathers, was accepted into membership. Those from lower Bucks County attending the meeting were: Otto Grupp, Jr., Eddington; Donald Meyer, William H. H. Fine, Lester D. Thorne, and Charles LaPolla, Bristol.

USE CRISP SALAD GREENS TO WHET SPRING APPETITES

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)
With variety in main dishes not too easy to obtain now, home-makers will find a crisp, bright salad gives appetite appeal to many an ordinary meal. It is suggested that you serve salads often.

Leaf lettuce, young tender spinach leaves, parsley, young onions, and relishes, available now in most home gardens, combine well in salads. To add to these, you can get from the market carrots, cabbage, cauliflower, green peppers, tomatoes, and cucumbers.

A tossed salad appeals to the family and is easy to prepare at the last minute. Select some vegetables for color, some for foundation for the salad, and some for outstanding flavor. Into a bowl, cut, tear, shred, dice, or slice vegetables into pieces that can be eaten easily. Young, tender spinach leaves, raw cauliflower flowerets, sliced radishes, and young onions are a good combination for a salad. Just before serving, add French dressing to coat vegetables, toss together lightly, and serve at once.

A raw vegetable relish dish may be prepared and served frequently instead of a salad. Select vegetables that go well together both in color and flavor. Cut, slice, or leave the vegetables whole depending upon the kind of vegetables used and how you'd like to have the relish dish appear on the table.

WAYNESBURG—Children apparently do more than annoy teachers and neighbors in Waynesburg. The library reported that each of its 1657 books had been withdrawn an average of nine times during 1944.

HARRISBURG—A faulty gas stove caused fire that was much more damaging to morale than to furniture in Mrs. George Carter's home. The flames turned to cinders two large steaks worth 26 points.

CHESTER—Signs of the times: Chester's air raid sirens have been placed on the "action" block.

MEDIA—Items stolen by Theron King were displayed in the court house so victims of the "phantom" burglar could reclaim some of their stolen property.

of the native dances on New Guinea, the lieutenant said special dances were given, but not some of the ceremonial dances which are extremely low.

At one time Lieut. Stover was assigned to a skin ward. Skin diseases are extremely prevalent in the South Pacific islands.

Asked about her own health, she said she had escaped all illness except a cold, in more than three years.

The people work about 4½ days a week . . . and strikes are called on what appear to Americans to be extremely trivial provocation. The miners once went on strike because a butcher discharged an incompetent girl clerk.

What are regarded here as very ordinary modern conveniences are not found in Australia, probably because of the abundance of household help in ordinary times.

Lieut. Stover enlisted April 7, 1941, and went to the South Pacific on March 1, 1942. She was in Australia for about nine months and then most of the time on New Guinea until January, 1944, when she went to Sydney for a rest and then returned to New Guinea.

On New Guinea, for a time, she helped in getting the headquarters work organized, since the WAC had not arrived until later.

The wounded she attended, the lieutenant said, were a wonderful group of patients.

She will be here for about a month, after which she will go to a Southern rest camp, after which she expects to again be assigned to the South Pacific area.

gaged on the farms on an annual basis. The C. E. D. Report also estimates that 915 will not seek work on the farms after the war. Over 200 men from the armed forces are expected to return to agriculture and 233 former employees on the farms, it is estimated, will drop out of war plants and return to the farm. The total number, at this time, that the farmers plan to employ in the year after the war is 5,620, of which 5,056 are men and 564 are women.

There will be opportunities for several thousand seasonal workers, according to Karl King who operates the Kings Farm, near Tallytown, in the post-war period when the imported help will no longer be available. During the height of the bean season, before the war, the daily payroll of the seasonal workers in Bucks County often exceeded 3,000.

The Agricultural Survey in Bucks is considered very important because the county is not only far in front of other counties in the state in value of vegetables produced, but also leads the East and North. Bucks ranks seventh in the nation, being exceeded only by the counties that produce vegetables for the winter markets. Bucks County produces 31.1% of the value of all vegetables grown in the state. In fact, in certain vegetables, it not only ranks first in the state, but also produces more than the state's entire yield, according to the U. S. 1939 Census. 98.8% of all broccoli, 91.8% of all parsnips, 81.9% of all spinach, 78.4% of all rhubarb, 64.7% of all turnips, 60.5% of all carrots, 53.6% of all beans, and 50% of all asparagus grown in the state comes from Bucks County. Bucks County also ranks high in the state and nation in poultry and dairy products.

Paul L. Gruber, the official C. E. D. Statistician, reveals that, while Bucks County is one of the nation's leading agricultural counties, only 15% of its employed population is engaged in farming, 41% is employed in manufacturing.

The statistical data for the county was collected by Russell Edwards, Chairman, Bucks County A. A. A.; Karl King, president, Kings Farm, Inc.; G. T. Loux, Supt., Quakertown Water Co.; D. Ker Endislow, Supervisor Vocational Agriculture, Sellersville - Perkasie; Thomas Johnston, Supervisor Vocational Agriculture, Buckingham; Ray Hagenbuch, Supervisor Vocational Agriculture, Newtown; and Walter Pitkonka, Owner, Pitkonka Pansy Farms.

a rejuvenated Chinese army is making the most of a gigantic offensive which split the Japanese corridor to French Indo-China and gained a strategic stretch of the Asiatic coastline opposite bomb-rocked Formosa.

The battle for Okinawa, however, remained the main front as Tenth Army troops hammered deeper into the Jap pocket on the southern portion of the island 325 miles from Japan.

Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz revealed that the Japs suffered the loss of at least 66,324 killed in the bloody battle since it began on April 1st. In addition, some 1,353 Nips were previously listed as prisoners, and estimates were that the remaining enemy numbered scarcely 12,000 of the original 85,000 on the island when the campaign began.

The American Marines and Doughboys enjoyed overwhelming superiority, greater than ever enjoyed by a U. S. Army in any Pacific battle. Now that the weather was clearing, they also were making increasing use of flame-throwing tanks and formidable forces of aircraft.

Britain's throat. Now Russia is rising on the horizon as a colossus far stronger than Germany, and potentially as envious of Great Britain.

The pleas of the Labor Party leaders for "cooperation" with Stalin may sound more like Chamberlain appeasement to the British than they do like a bid for what we would call "internationalism."

Second, Churchill saved England, and the British people know it. Chamberlain had led the nation to the verge of disaster, and Churchill rescued it and led it back, the hard way, to victory.

Third, Churchill set up and maintained, until the opposition broke it up, a true unity or coalition government. He took no political advantage of the emergency for his own party's aggrandisement, nor for his own personal prestige.

In true conformity to the British theory of government, he appeared personally before the House of Commons to answer and justify his policies—and to meet face to face, and usually silence, his critics.

Fourth, the success Churchill has achieved is the best possible argument for continuing his government through the perilous and difficult days ahead. No possible opponent can bring the same knowledge, steadfastness and proven ability.

Far more than Churchill, it is the doctrine of Communism which is on trial in England.

New Law is Now Effective in State

Many Pennsylvania employers not affected by the Unemployment Compensation Law may now be liable for contributions in accordance with an amendment passed at the recent session of the Legislature. This new provision is retroactive to January 1, 1945.

Employers who hire one or more workers at any time now are subject to the contribution requirements of the Unemployment Compensation Law. Under the amendment practically the same type of employment as before is excluded, such as domestic service, agricultural workers, etc., in most cases employers who are required to make payroll deductions for the old age and survivors insurance feature of the Social Security law must now report to the Commonwealth under unemployment compensation.

Full information regarding this new requirement may be had by contacting the Office of the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation at 11 W. Oakland avenue, Doylestown, Pa., J. Russell Baker, Sr., supervisor.

Dinner-Party Honors A Retiring Official

A testimonial dinner-party was arranged at the Stacy-Trent Hotel, Trenton, N. J., last evening, in honor of Walter E. Strang, who has resigned as director of industrial relations at the plant of Fleetings, Division of Kaiser Cargo, Inc.

The affair was planned by members of the personnel department, who presented Mr. Strang with a leather-topped knee-hole desk. Officials of the firm presented him with a brief case.

Dinner music was provided by an accordionist. Places were arranged for 45.

Expressing pleasure over their association with Mr. Strang were the following: S. H. Hackley, vice-president of Fleetings; Ralph Knight, assistant to Mr. Hackley; Walter Lucie, controller, who presented the gift from the management; Mrs. Charlotte Gade, secretary to Mr. Strang, who made the presentation of the personnel department gift; Robert Graney, and Paul Yager, direct assistants to Mr. Strang in the personnel department; James Birdsall, resident controller for Fleetings; Dr. M. D. Krenens, personnel physician; Devon Smith, employment manager; Mrs. Parke Wetherill, Willard Murphy. Brief remarks were also made by H. O. Fallon, successor to Mr. Strang.

Two scrolls were presented to the guest of honor, one signed by plant officials and the other by those in the personnel department.

Localite Stationed On Venerable Ship

The Okinawa action was her fifth major engagement of World War II, and one of the most dramatic in her long career.

For more than a month her main and secondary batteries blasted at pin-point targets on the island. It was not a one-sided battle. At one time she won a duel with a shore battery that was hurling shells precariously close. At another an enemy bomber made a run on the ship, going down with a terrific explosion as the Navy guns found their mark.

The ship saw action in Europe and also took part in the two Jima bombardments.

KINGS POINT, N. Y., June 8.—Cadet-Midshipman George T. Evans, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Evans, of Cornwall Heights, Pa., has just graduated from the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy here. He has qualified for his license as third mate and will soon be shipping out in that capacity aboard a vessel of the U. S. Merchant Marine. In addition to receiving his license he received a commission as ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Evans, a graduate of the Bensalem high school, was active in the school band and orchestra, and a member of the airplane model and the music clubs. He was appointed to the Merchant Marine Cadet Corps about 21 months ago, reporting to the basic school at San Mateo, Cal. After three months studies there he was assigned as a deck cadet-midshipman to a merchant ship carrying war supplies to the far-flung battlefronts. Serving nine months at sea he reported to Kings Point September, 1944, to complete his academic studies. During his sea training, Evans' ship was subjected to enemy air attacks.

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE AERIAL RECONNAISSANCE STATION, England, June 8.—Soldiers of this command are now seeing the tremendous destruction brought on Germany by the bombs of the Eighth Air Force and the guns of the ground forces in one of the most unorthodox, spectacular sight-seeing trips they will probably ever have—a five-hour, 900-mile, 1,000-foot altitude flight over England, France, Belgium and Germany.

Among the soldiers who have flown over the continent to view the amazing panorama of devastation set in a patchwork of canals, snaking rivers, dark forests and cattle in peaceful fields is Cpl. Wentzel W. Douglas, 29, of Hulmeville, Pa. He is a utilities department carpenter for the headquarter-ters and base services squadron at this Seventh Photo Reconnaissance Group station commanded by Col. George W. Humbrecht of St. Louis, Mo.

He saw London, Calais, Brussels, Antwerp, the shattered, almost leveled industrial Ruhr Valley towns of Duisburg, Essen, Bottrop and Sterkade. He saw the the bomb-blasted V-1 and V-2 sites, the Siegfried Line, Dunkerque, and the crumbling ruins of the cities that once were Aachen, Durn and Cologne.

For many it was their first flight. For all it was their first opportunity to actually see and know what part they, as apparently unimportant individuals, had played in defeating and crushing the enemy. For two and three years they had worked diligently at routine, unimpressive ground tasks without any visual knowledge or satisfaction that their small, individual jobs played an important part in the over-all assignment of the victorious Allied armies.

Cpl. Douglas is a son of Mrs. Clifford Bamberg, of Hulmeville. He entered the army February 8, 1943.

BADENHAUSEN IS STILL UNDEFEATED; SMOTHERS RIVAL

Boiler Makers Beat Schutte-Koerting Nine by Score of 15 to 0

MINSTER ON THE HILL

Leo Hibbs Gets Double and Three Singles In The Game

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 8.—The Badenhause team remained unbeaten in the Bristol Suburban League by smothering the Schutte-Koerting nine, 15-0, last evening on the Bensalem Township high school field.

The veteran Harry Minster was on the hill for the Baddies and held the Echo Beach aggregation to two safe hits, both singles made by Dan McIntyre and Macfie. It was Minster's first mound start since the 1942 season and he aided in his team's doing by crashing out a triple with two on base in the second inning.

Minster was backed by fine fielding support, the Baddies completing four fast double-plays. Two of these twin-killings were from short to third while Praul to Dean started another one. The fourth was made by Vandegrift, unassisted.

Leo Hibbs led the assault on the Schutte-Koerting team by getting a double and three singles while Freeman Bowman had two doubles and a single. Hanson robbed several of the visitors of hits by beautiful catches in centerfield.

Kennedy who did the hill work for the losers pitched well but slow fielding and errors made his work go for naught. Many of the Badenhause hits should have been stopped or caught by the Schutte-Koerting fielders.

last evening on Leedom's field as the Third Ward Eagles dropped their sixth straight game. The game went an extra inning with the final count being 6-5.

Murphy was the winning hurler, he having relieved Glenn Shelly before the Harriman team deadlocked the score in their last turn with the stick. Both Murphy and Shelly were given wonderful support, especially on the parts of Mama, Capriotti and Burton. Mama also came through with three timely hits.

Saxton who hurried for the losing aggregation had seven strikeouts to his credit and aided his club in the run scoring by getting three of their ten hits.

Yardley Girl Scouts Are 3rd in Contest

YARDLEY, June 8.—Yardley In-

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS - BY JOE ELBERSON

Disappointing . . . another rainy fishing trip at West Creek last Saturday night. Four of us came back Sunday morning with considerably dampened spirits (and clothes) and just three croakers after fishing practically all night in Barnegat Bay.

The sun was shining when we hired our rowboat at Bill's and headed out into the Bay. According to all omens we were supposed to catch fish. We weren't out too long when the first croaker was landed.

Then came the rain. We rowed back to Bill's and had some coffee and clam chowder with clams in it. About 11 p. m. it stopped raining so we started out again. This time we got a tow on a power boat which took us about five miles down the Bay (to where the fish were supposed to be biting fast and furiously).

Oh, yes, it began raining again. And it was still raining when we got back to Bill's at 4 a. m. with a total of three fish. Tom and Nick Rubino and Harry Bossler were in the party.

Still plenty of rabbits . . . reports indicate that in spite of the fact that nearly 10,000 bunnies were live-trapped on territory closed to hunting by the Game Commission last winter, that there are still very large numbers remaining on protected areas and around Victory Gardens.

Among the rebellants to keep rabbits away from gardens, according to a list recently put out by the Game Commission is a commercial grade of aluminum sulphate which may be used as a spray. Your local feed store can probably recommend others just as effective.

More trout for Bucks County . . . on May 30th the Fish Commission trucks came to two Bucks County streams with additional trout. On Cook's Creek 1700 rainbows and 1000 brownies were dumped, and at Ingham's Run an allotment of 900 brown trout was placed.

Meeting next week . . . the June meeting of the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association will be held next Tuesday evening, June 12, at Odd Fellows' Hall, Walnut and Radcliffe Streets, at 8.30. Members and friends are urged to be on hand. Announcement of details for the annual kids' fishing contest conducted by the Association will probably be announced at this meeting.

Legislation . . . among other bills affecting the interests of Pennsylvania sportsmen passed at the last session of the General Assembly in Harrisburg is one which eliminates the need for filing the game-kill report. This is for small game and the reports on kills of deer and bear still will need to be made by hunters.

ROHM & HAAS NINE TAKES 2ND PLACE AS RESULT OF WIN

Diamond Team Loses To Chemical Mixers By Score of 9 to 3

CLOSE FOR A WHILE

Up Until the First Spurt The Game Was A Deadlock With Score 1 to 1

Walt Hauser connected for four out of four last evening on the Maple Beach diamond as the Rohm and Haas team took undisputed possession of second place in the Bristol Suburban League, defeating the Diamond team, 9-3.

The game was a close affair until the chemical mixers rallied to score four runs in the fifth and came back with four more in the seventh. Until the first spurt, the score was deadlocked at 1-1. The Three walks and hits by Hauser, Canetti and Avanzato gave the Maple Beach team its first quartet of markers. All this was done after Rohm had retired the first two batters.

part played by this seasoned, fighting force will add new luster to the reputation of the "Iron Division." For security reasons much achieved by this Division, termed the "Bloody Patch Division," by the Germans, is yet undisclosed. We do know, however, that it was given the task of holding Von Rundstedt in Belgium until the necessary plans could be put into operation to stop him short of his objective.

As in World War One, the 28th Division has been among the best fighting troops in the American Army. In the first great conflict

In spite of the losses suffered by the 28th in this war, every Pennsylvanian can hold his head a little higher in the proud knowledge of the glorious traditions firmly established in the First World War have been so nobly kept by the of Pennsylvania's own, the Division with the "bloody patch" a red keystone, on their shoulder.
